

Shortlisted by a panel of experts as a must-read education book

<https://www.learningladders.info/>

Creating the World We Want to Live In “Creating the World We Want to Live In shows how we can all make the world a better place, one positive action at a time.

“Throughout the 13 chapters, from childhood to relationships to the environment, the seven authors cite the evidence on wellbeing. They conclude that we need to move from a focus on what is good for me now to what is best for all of us in the longer term. Written to engage and inspire all readers, the science is illustrated with stories of good practice and solutions from around the globe. There are reflections and searching questions in each chapter to stimulate discussion. These provide an excellent resource for students aged 11-15, or even younger.

“Our world is in a precarious place and young people are anxious about many things. What we all need is an injection of hope and practical ideas for a post-pandemic re-set. Education is about that future, for both individuals and the society they create.”

Creating The World We Want to Live In – How Positive Psychology Can Build a Brighter Future